M'KINLEY RALLY

Thousands Gather at Canton

To Formally Open the Campaign.

Banks, Stores and Factories Closed,

And the Day Given Over to Pleasure.

Democrat, Populist and Republicans Unite in Decorating and Beautifying the City.

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 18.—Canton was up late last night looking over her wardrobe and selecting the brightest and best. Conton was up early this morning and robed in raiment gorgeous and elaborate. The formal opening of the campaign in the home city of the republican nominee occurs today and that Canton might appear at her best and do herself and her guests credit was the occasion of all the hustle and hurry.

Streets are strung with streamers and banners and flags; arches with welcoming mottos span prominent thoroughfares; buildings, public and private, are draped with flags and bunting; portraits of McKinley and Hobart are displayed in thousands of windows.

Nature lent her assistance to the demonstration with a day approaching perfection. It is bright and sunshiny, but cool enough to prevent prostrations or serious discomfort to marchers. Advance announcements gave evidence of an enormous crowd, but the morning indications are that expectations will be exceeded. Many shops and factories closed for the entire day. Some of the business houses opened only for a few hours of early morning trade; others closed at noon. Offices in general did not open and banks also suspended business for the day after the luncheon hour. So far as Canton is concerned it is largely a non-partisan demonstration, people of all parties uniting in decorations and in giving the day over to the celebration.

Bright and early there came from Little Sandy township a club of 200 uniformed men and nearly the whole of the populace of the township. At the square they met similar parties from other directions in the county. Then came 400 farmers from Carroll county. By this time the special trains, of which more than fifty are scheduled, began to arrive and the delegations from outside the county poured in almost faster than they could be counted.

The notable uniformed delegations present are the Young Men's Tariff club and the Americus club, of Pittsburg; the Elkins cadets, of Wheeling; the Tippecanoe club, of Cleveland, and the Wheelmen's clubs, from Toledo and Detroit, who left their train at a suburban station and rode into the city in parade order. At noon the hustle and hurry of parade organization began. The parade moved in four divisions of footmen and a large contingent of wheelmen and horsemen. Pennsylvania, West Virginia and other states formed the first division; Ohio outside of Starke county, the second; Starke county, outside of Canton, the third, and Canton the fourth. Each of the notable delegations was assigned a position of honor. Major McKinley, the visiting speakers, the officers of the day and guests of honor rode in open carriages at the head of the parade.

A short line of march brought the parade to a monster tent with accommodations for twenty thousand people. Here the first meeting was held, Governor Bushnell presiding and making a short introductory address. There was music by the combined bands and campaign songs by the Pittsburg Tariff League quartet and Aealian quartet. Addresses were made by Senators Cullom, of Illinois, and Thurston, of Nebraska. In the evening, with brilliant illuminations, another parade will be made and another meeting held in the tent. Governor Hastings, of Pennsylvania, and Congressman McCleary, of Minnesota, are to be the speakers.

SENATOR CULLOM'S SPEECH.

"Mr. Altgeld and other democratic leaders say the present dollar is a 200 cent dollar, while the dollar before 1873 was a 100 cent dollar. In the first place the statement is not correct, but if it were, which would you rather have, a dollar worth 200 or a dollar worth fifty cents? They say nobody ever saw a fifty cent dollar. Nobody ever saw any dollar in coin that would not circulate anywhere in this country, and in many foreign countries, at its nominal value. Suppose it is true that our dollars are 200 cent dollars. How many of these have we in circulation? According to the last treasury statement we have more than $1,500,000,000, consisting of gold, silver and paper, one dollar just as good as another, a per capita circulation of nearly $22 If Bryan, Altgeld and their associates are right, then our money in circulation is equal to $3 000,000,000, or about $44 per capita. As their platform only calls for $50 per capita, they ought to be satisfied with $44.

Let us see what would happen in the event of the success of the nominees of the Chicago convention. Our gold would leave us to be hoarded, that is certain—a contraction of $600,000,000. The remainder of our money would shrink in purchasing power equal to the difference between the par value of the dollar and the bullion price of silver. That difference is now about 47 cents. So that our circulation would be contracted to that extent and we would have less than $9 per capita in circulation of actual money where we now have $22 Mr. Bryan says we would no doubt have a panic at first after the adoption of free coinage. He admits that much. He does not say whether it will be just a little wave which will wet the toes and scare the timorous, or whether it will be a tidal wave which will engulf the nation.

We are not children in experience. We had our fingers burned four years ago, and they are yet sore from the effects of the fire. Wm. J. Bryan told us then that free trade was just what we needed; that our troubles were all due to the tariff. He now tells us that we must have free silver; that it will be a crime against humanity to longer refuse it; that all mankind has been suffering untold misery since 1873 on account of the demonetization of silver. You know better. Will you take his advice again? I do not think you will.

There is no use deceiving ourselves in dalying with this question. We have more gold and more silver than we ever had before, and altogether more circulating medium than we ever had before, and we have no money that is not on par with gold, which is the recognized money of the commercial world. Let us not run off after moonshine theories pressed upon us by Bryan, Tillman and Altgeld and men who may be honest but who are urging the people of the country to adopt a policy or try an experiment in defiance of the facts of history and in opposition to the judgment of the wisest friends of silver in the world.

"The republican party is for bimetallism. It believes in the use of both gold and silver as money. It believes in the admission of both to the mints of the United States on equal terms as soon as it can be done with safety and honor. Our party is pledged to it in the St. Louis platform.

Whenever hard times have come upon the country, there have always been men, calling themselves by some party name, who tried to ride into power on the misery and discontent of their countrymen. But, thank God, they have always failed, and will fail again. Four years ago the democratic party was successful on the tariff issue. What followed is familiar to you all—hard times, misery and distress, such as was never experienced before by this generation. Two years ago the country again turned to the republican party for relief. The great majority they sent to the house of representatives was powerless to afford relief. Why? Because the silver trust, led by the senators from the silver states, was strong enough in the senate to bind that body hand and foot, and absolutely refused to permit any bill affording more revenue for the support of the government to pass unless it contained a free coinage amendment. They were willing to allow the country to go to universal bankruptcy and even revolution itself to accomplish their ends. It is but a repetition of what was attempted eighteen years ago under the leadership of some of the men who are now at the head of the silver conspiracy. They threatened to 'starve' the government to death unless they were allowed to repeal certain laws which were obnoxious to them. Did the country approve of their action? The election returns answer the question.

I believe the effort of the present conspirators to starve the country into the adoption of the free and unlimited coinage of silver will as signally fail. They tell us we need more money; that an inflation of the currency, such as would follow the free coinage of silver, would result in higher prices for all the products of the farm, etc. Such has always been the cry of men who desired to obtain something for nothing. They tell the farmer he will get higher prices for his products with free coinage, and they tell the laborer at the same time that he will have more work and higher wages. All history shows that the price of labor is the first to go down and the last to go up. The democrats propose in some mysterious way to suspend the law of supply and demand. There is not the slightest doubt that the unlimited free coinage of silver in this country would bring down wages. And that is what many who favor free trade and free coinage want.

One of the dangers of this country is the reduction of wages. It will be a sad day when the wages of the laborer in the United States shall be reduced to the level of those of China, Japan and Mexico. When the time comes we might control the markets of the world, but it would be at the expense of our republican government and of our civilization. When the wage earner is pauperized in this country the power and glory of our government have departed."

CANDIDATE BRYAN

Receives a Hearty Welcome in North Carolina.

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Sept. 18.—Wm. J. Bryan arrived here at 11:30 last night, where the private car he is traveling in was side tracked until 9 o'clock this morning, at which hour he delivered an address from a platform to a large crowd which had been waiting since early morning. He had the following to say today about the action of the Buffalo convention: "I am very much gratified to learn that the New York convention endorsed the platform as well as the ticket."

HAIL, WIND AND RAIN.

Eastern Pennsylvania the Scene of a Storm.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 18.—The storm of wind, hail and rain which swept over the eastern part of Pennsylvania last night, was the most severe that has visited this section in a long time. Scores of buildings were unroofed, some of them utterly ruined, thousands of panes of window glass and many skylights were shattered, while the apple and other late crops were almost totally destroyed. The storm was the most severe in Chester, Montgomery, Berkes, Bucks, Lehigh and Lycoming counties. In the vicinity of Hatfield, Montgomery county, about thirty houses and barns were unroofed. Two grist mills, owned by George Snyder, were totally wrecked, together with his dwelling. Reports received from Shenandoah state that all the apple orchards in the Catawassa valley have been stripped of their fruit. Three thousand panes of glass were broken. The green houses of J. L. Dalton, at Bloomsburg, were damaged to the amount of $3,000, and several houses were unroofed. In Williamsport and vicinity great damage was done. George Weikel, a farmer, was killed by lightning while at work in his cornfield. A portion of the Williamsport rolling mill was blown down and every window on the north and west sides of the big Central avenue school building was broken. Fruit trees in the Blake Hole valley were stripped of fruit. The country surrounding Reading suffered considerable. Many houses and barns were badly damaged. Fruit trees and windows near West Chester suffered severely from the large hail stones and heavy winds.

PAY CAR WRECKED.

Ran Into a Freight, Which it Was Following.

Conductor, Engineer and Two Firemen Killed and Six Others Badly Injured.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—Four men were killed and a number of others badly injured this morning in a wreck on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, near Connersville, Ind., about forty miles east of here. The dead are:

Christ Sweetman, engineer, Dayton.
—— Kinsey, fireman, Cincinnati.
George House, conductor, Indianapolis.
—— Hughes, fireman, Hamilton.

THE INJURED.

Paymaster Janseng, badly hurt.
Assistant Paymaster Scallon, slightly injured.
—— Fishback, porter of pay car, badly hurt.
E. Wilsong, foreman of bridges and buildings, badly hurt.
J. M. Rourke, roadmaster, slightly injured.
—— Connor, engineer, Hamilton, supposed to be fatally hurt.

The accident was one of the worst that has happened in this part of the state for years. The pay car was following the regular freight train, No. 94, east-bound. Both were running as extra trains.

The freight stopped at Longwood and put part of the train on to a siding, taking the rest to Salter's switch. The crew took the engine of the freight and started back to Longwood.

When one and one-half miles east of Longwood, the wild engine met the pay car. It was down grade and impossible to stop. The two engines came together with a terrible crash and the pay car was thrown onto its side in the ditch. Paymaster King is so badly hurt that he cannot possibly live.

FOUGHT FOR A GIRL.

Pugilists Settle a Rivalry in the Ring.

Pummel Each Other for Twenty-eight Rounds With Bare Knuckles.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—It took twenty-eight rounds of desperate bare knuckles fighting to settle a grudge that has existed for a long time between Jimmy Britt, once champion bantam weight of the coast, and Frank Lawler, another well known athlete. Britt and Lawler were formerly friends, but had a falling out over a member of the fair sex and decided to settle the controversy in a bare knuckle finish fight. Both being members of a well known athletic club in the Mission that has turned out a great many good boxers, it was decided to hold the match there. The favored few who were to be present selected a well known sporting man as referee and the combatants stripped and went to work. The first three rounds consisted of hot give and take work with the result that both men showed signs of distress when the fourth was called. From the fifth to the twelfth, however, the fighting was fast with honors about even. They then took things easy until the twentieth round, when another fierce rally nearly resulted in Britt going out from a right hand swing that landed on his neck. He recovered in the next round and from that to the twenty-eighth round he had a shade the best of the argument, Lawler being tired. As there seemed to be little chance of a finish and both men were terribly punished, the referee called the match a draw.

FT. WAYNE PRESBYTERY

The Sessions Will Be Held at Bethany Church and Will Begin Next Monday Evening.

The Presbytery of Fort Wayne, consisting of one minister and one ruling elder from each Presbyterian church within the bounds of the eleven counties in northeast Indiana, will convene in Bethany church, Nebraska, next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

While the sessions of the Presbytery on Tuesday will be mostly of a business nature, the evening conventions are of interest to the general public and all are cordially welcomed to enjoy the feast of good things spread by some of the most eminent divines in this portion of the country.

On Monday evening Rev. F. C. Colvin, the energetic pastor of the Auburn church, will preach the sermon as retiring moderator. Mr. Colvin is one of the younger members who has rapidly risen in favor with his brethren until he now holds the highest office in the gift of the Presbytery. After the sermon there will be the usual election of a new moderator for the present sessions.

The delegates will be royally entertained by the people of Bethany, who are glad to welcome the Presbytery in their new and beautiful church. A pleasant feature of the entertainment will be the dinner and supper served in the social room by the ladies. It would be hard to find a more genial crowd than a lot of preachers and elders and they appear at their best when seated around a big table.

On Tuesday evening there will be a popular meeting, at which a few distinguished "men of the cloth" will address the people on subjects relevant to the work of the Presbyterian church. Rev. Geo. O. Mackintosh, of Kendallville, a profound theologian; Rev. E. Y. Hill, now of Warsaw, but recently of Chicago; Dr. D. W. Moffat, who needs no introduction to Fort Wayne, and Dr. H. L. Vannuys, of Goshen, the nestor of the Presbytery, will give short and pointed addresses.

Good music will be furnished for both evening services by the Clarion quartet, of Bethany, and the Haydn, of the First church.

As the entertainment of this prominent body of Christian workers is eagerly sought after by the individual churches, who deem it an honor, the people of Bethany are to be congratulated upon securing their presence in their own midst and the city at large.

GEORGE JACOBS,

The Well Known Musician, Embarks in the Piano and Organ Business.

George Jacobs has opened a music store at 14 East Berry street, where he will be pleased to have the public call and see his new stock of pianos and organs. He handles the World Renownd Crown Pianos that were selected for every state building at the World's Fair, with the wonderful orchestral attachment and practice clavier, which enables the player to imitate twelve different instruments. Others have tried to imitate, but no other has ever attained one tenth of the merit. The piano itself possesses a powerful, deep rich tone, and the action is perfection. He also has in stock the popular Bush & Gertz piano, which gives the best value for the money obtainable. He also has the agency for the celebrated Hazelton Bros.' pianos which are so well known to the public as strictly high grade instruments that they need no comment from us. The organs handled in his store are the Geo. P. Bent and Newman Bros., of Chicago, both first class instruments.

Mr. Jacobs does not profess to sell below cost, as most dealers say they do, but guarantees to give you a square deal and sell you on a smaller profit than anyone else. He kindly solicits a visit to his store where you will be able to judge for yourself.

Eli Stumpf, of the law firm of Clapham & Stumpf, met with a distressing accident while alighting from a street car last evening. He stepped on a cobble stone, turning his foot and fracturing the bones. The injury will confine him to the house for some time.

In a fight which occurred last night in Mendel Frank's place Joseph Schramm assaulted his brother in law, William Boesse, and beat him pretty badly about the head.

HUGH DOUGHERTY.

Free Coinage Essential to Maintenance of Good Government and the Return of Prosperity.

The Hon. Hugh Dougherty, the Bluffton banker, who is well known throughout Indiana, is another western banker who has become convinced that the election of Bryan and the restoration of silver are imperatively essential to the maintenance of good government and the return of prosperity.

He has but recently come to this conclusion and the reasons for the faith that is now within him are stated frankly in the following extract from a personal and business letter to a friend in Muncie:

"There is no doubt in my mind as to my duty in this campaign, and that is to support Bryan and Sewall with all my power and energy. My business is one that is as sensitive as any, unless it might be large manufacturing concerns. But I have no fear of Bryan and Sewall's election interfering with my business, but on the contrary I feel that after the first three months business will improve and prices will advance all along the line. I probably take a different view than some people on this money question. The production of silver in this country being about six-tenths of all the production in the world settles the question in my mind as to our duty in protecting silver, and to stay by it as the basic money. All this talk about sound money, and illustrating it by saying that a gold dollar melted down is worth a dollar, but a silver dollar melted down is only worth fifty cents, only shows that what we want to do is to give silver free coinage so that it will pay off the debts of the farmers at 100 cents on the dollar, double the value of every product that he raises, and when the silver dollar is melted down will be worth 100 cents at any bank where ever you present it, because it can be sent back and recoined into a dollar. The paper currency that you mention was only worth about forty cents on the dollar during the time that the greatest portion of our bonds were issued, and the bondholders who bought our bonds at that time brought their gold from Liverpool and London and exchanged in our bonds at about forty cents. There has never been a time that those bonds were payable in gold, but were always payable in coin. There has never been a time when the greenback was payable in gold; it has always been payable in coin.

"That is not only true as to the laws on the statute, which is sufficient notice to all the investors, both in Europe and in America, but in addition to that Stanley Matthews, of Ohio, in 1878 offered a resolution in the United States senate, which passed both houses, declaring that it was the option of this country to pay our government bonds and greenbacks in silver dollars of 412½ grains weight, which answers all the argument about 'repudiation.'

"But the policy of the country, begun by Secretary Foster under Harrison and which will be continued if McKinley is elected, has been to defy the statutes and to override the policy as declared by congress to pay these bonds and the greenback currency in gold which has had the result of appreciating until it is now worth 200 cents in silver, wheat, corn, horses and everything that is produced by the farmers of this country. These are things that I well knew all along these many years. But the knowledge came to me in broken doses, and I never thought to apply it to the troubles that we were undergoing and the distress that the farmers are now in until it came to me through the discussion in this campaign. I have never seen a time in all my life that I feel so earnest and ambitious as I am now to do something to promote the interest of free coinage and Bryan and Sewall's election. I am fully aware of the trouble we will have in carrying Bryan through, because of the great money leaders of this country furnishing money to the republican party to carry through this campaign. And on the other side, I fully appreciate the poverty of the democratic organization. Still I think the next two months will educate the people in the states like Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and the west until Bryan may have a safe majority even in defiance of the money power."

MEAN BUSINESS.

State Liquor League Meets at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—The Indiana State Liquor league held its annual meeting here yesterday with eighty delegates, representing as many subordinate organizations, were in attendance.

The league determined to oppose the candidacy for office of all men, regardless of party, who are not in sympathy with their business The Nicholson law was denounced and the people were called upon to assist in getting it off the statute books.

George Teppee, of Anderson, was chosen president of the league, and J. H. Bruner and P. J. Callen, both of this city, treasurer and secretary, respectively. The next meeting will be held at Anderson.

Congressman Martin at the Court House Square.

Distinguished German Orator Speaks at Pull's Hall Tonight—Mention of Democratic and Republican Meetings.

Ex-Congressman A. N. Martin, of Bluffton, addressed quite a large audience of democrats last night from the south steps of the court house, where a temporary stage had been erected by the Loyal Hall Democracy, under whose auspices the meeting was held. The Robinson quartet entertained the assembly with several finely rendered campaign songs, after which P. W. Schaden introduced Mr. Martin, who proceeded at once to a discussion of the issues of the campaign. Mr. Martin while in congress was chairman of the house pension committee and was recognized as one of the ablest members of the Indiana delegation and one of the best speakers in that body. His speech last night was a plain and forcible discussion of the issues. He handled the financial question in a plain and practical manner and showed that with the free coinage of silver a return of prosperity would come to the people and the business interests of the country.

J. T. Brooks, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who resigned as a democratic elector in the state of Pennsylvania because of the free silver plank in the platform of the democratic national convention, will speak tonight at the Princess rink. The meeting will be preceded by a parade of the streets, participated in by the republican clubs of the city.

The democratic county committee has secured the services of Hon. Lawrence Becker to make a series of German speeches in this county. Mr. Becker comes here with the highest recommendation from the national democratic committee and is a gentleman thoroughly versed on finance and economic history. His first address will be made to the voters of the Seventh and Tenth wards and will be delivered at Puff's hall this evening. He will speak in German only and there will be no English speaking whatever. The capacity of the hall is not over about 350, barely enough to accommodate the German speaking population of the two wards. On Monday evening Mr. Becker will speak at Trier's school house, in Adams township.

The republicans of the Second ward organized a McKinley club last evening. Col. D. N. Foster was elected president of the club; Dr. George B. M. Bower, secretary, and Peter F. Poirson, treasurer. Weekly meetings will be held on each Thursday night until election, with addresses by different speakers. The club has rented for its headquarters the store room at the southwest corner of Berry and Barr streets.

Democratic meetings were held at different points in the county last night the reports are that all of them were largely attended. Our candidate for congress, J. M. Robinson was at New Haven and delivered an able address. Mr. Robinson is always warmly welcomed by his audiences and this was the case last evening at New Haven. R. K. Ervin, of Decatur, also spoke at the same meeting. Judge S. M. Hench and O. P. Eversole, spoke at the Parker school house, in St. Joe township. Messrs. E. V. Emrick and Will E. Colerick addressed a silver meeting at Williamsport. Rufus Snyder presided at the meeting. Judge O'Rourke spoke to the democrats in Pleasant township.

There will be a democratic meeting tonight at school house No. 3, near the county poor farm. Good speakers will be in attendance to address the people. There will be a watermelon barbecue during the evening.

Dr. J. W. Younge will discuss the silver question tonight at Hake's hall, on Wel's street.

THEY "RODE THE GOAT,"

Did Officer "Bobby" Dickson and Fifteen Others.

Sixteen was the number of gentlemen who appeared at the hall of No. 36, A. O. U. W., last evening and asked to be taught the mysteries of the order. It had previously been announced that a large class would be initiated and, as a consequence, nearly every seat in the large hall was occupied by members of the various Fort Wayne lodges. One of the candidates was Officer "Bobby" Dickson, of the police force, who has many a warm friend in the A. O. U. W. As is customary under such circumstances, it was decided that this individual be pushed through as easily (?) as possible, but, as it was, the "goat" butted him here, there and everywhere that the walls would let him go and only for the timely interference of his friends he would have been badly shaken up. The First A. O. U. W. band was present and furnished some fine music. To add to the evening's entertainment, Messrs. Gus Holbrook and John A. McClellan rendered several vocal selections. Hon. J. M. Robinson was present and reviewed the benefits to be derived from a membership in this order. Rev. Albertson, one of the new members, spoke encouragingly of the prospects for the advancement of the order. At the close of the meeting a lunch was served.

FISHMAN FINED.

Sensational Proceedings Growing Out of a Religious Row.

The case of the state vs. Samuel Fishman came up in police court this morning in the presence of a large number of Jews attracted thence by the sensational nature of the proceedings. Fishman was arraigned on the charge of confiscating the sacred book from the hall where a certain branch of the Hebrews had been worshiping in commemoration of the holy day of Yom Kippur. A large number of witnesses were examined and the evidence was of a mixed and contradictory nature, hard to sum up. However, after members of both factions had taken a hand at being witnesses, attorneys and everything else and had indulged in more or less personal abuse, the mayor assessed a fine of $10 and costs against Fishman, which was paid.

The friends of Fishman claim that he had the authority to take charge of the holy book in controversy, as he had become personally responsible for its safe return to the congregation of Acduth Veshalom temple, of whom it was borrowed. The matter will, however, probably end where it is.

One of the outcomes of the affair is that Moses Mull has filed an affidavit in Justice France's court for disturbing a religious meeting.

A BURGLARY.

Daylight burglars completed a very neat job yesterday afternoon at the home of G. A. Rabus, at 284 West Berry street, the family being absent at the time. About 4 o'clock two men were seen by workmen engaged on the new Gutermuth house in the adjoining yard, to enter the Rabus premises and disappear at the rear of the house. These workmen gave the matter little thought, supposing the men had been sent for some purpose. Shortly afterwards the two fellows reappeared, each carrying a bundle. Still the workmen were not suspicious.

Upon Mrs. Rabus' return the discovery was made that the house had been ransacked and goods to the value of probably $100 were missing. Among the missing articles are eighteen solid silver spoons, one pair of solid gold cuff buttons, one jewel box containing shirt buttons and cuff buttons, one revolver, a gold watch and chain and a half dozen siver table forks.

Entrance was effected by prying open a back window. It is supposed the thieves were after Mrs. Rabus' diamonds, but fortunately the lady had them on when the robbery was committed. There is no clew to the burglars.

MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETENSES.

Ben Eldred is the name of a young man arrested by Detective Coling last evening at the office of the United States Express company. He has been using the telegraph to secure money from the friends of a man in Chicago, using the man's name. Detective Coling worked up the case and arrested Eldred yesterday when he called at the express office to get as he supposed the proceeds of his last message. Eldred received one order for $50 through the United States company. His case will come up in police court tomorrow morning.

INDIANA and Illinois are regarded as the deciding states in the elections of this year. Their "I's" will look duty square in the face and they will cast their electoral votes for Bryan and free silver.

THE New York Herald is gravely discussing the proper age for women to marry. Well, as times go now, it would seem that the proper age for woman to marry is just as quick as she gets a chance.

LI HUNG CHANG is on the broad Pacific homeward bound. He left Vancouver amid a blaze of fireworks. He carries back to the flowery kingdom a vast fund of information which he gathered in this country.

WHEN will contributors learn? Here comes to our table a communication unaccompanied by the name of the writer or any clue by which we could ascertain who he is, and "chuck" it goes into our waste basket, as has been the fate of many manuscripts before it

FRED BOORD, of Covington, Ind., who, as a republican member of the state senate, was known as the "boy senator," has announced that he will support the democratic ticket at the coming election. He says he is opposed to the financial declaration of the St. Louis convention.

THE democratic committee in the Eleventh district has filled the vacancy on the state committee caused by the resignation of Rufus Magee, of Logansport, by the appointment of Samuel E. Cook, of Huntington. Mr. Cook has been chairman of the Huntington county committee for some time.

THERE is no use getting excited over these political questions whereby animosity and acrimony is stirred up—neighbors against neighbors. When you take a sober thought you must conclude that the dollar that is best for the one is also the best for the other and also that kind of tariff that benefits you will benefit your neighbor. The thing for you to do is to decide for yourself which kind you honestly believe is for the common good.

Voting for Electors.

Members of the electoral college are state officers under the law, and therefore their names appear on the state ballots. It is possible for a voter to vote for one or for all of them, and the returns of every presidential election shows that each has a few enemies who refuse to vote for him. Under the operation of the Australian law it has invariably happened that the first of the electors named has run far ahead of the rest because it is impossible, seemingly, to teach every voter that to vote the straight ticket, he must stamp either in the square surrounding the emblem or each name as it appears on the ballot. Many show that they believe they are voting as they desire by stamping by the side of the first elector's name.

The Right Kind of Spirit.

One of the most interesting reunions of the many that have taken place since the war is the gathering this week of the survivors of the union and confederate armies upon the battlefield of Antietam, to join in the dedication of the monument of the Philadelphia brigade.

The monument commemorates one of those splendid displays of American valor in which every American must take equal pride, and we have happily reached that time when we can look back to the stirring events of our great struggle without passion or prejudice, recognizing only the benefits it brought to both sections of the nation that through that struggle was brought to a more perfect union than before.

Sectionalism has no countenance now from the men who fought on either side at Antietam and Gettysburg. They clasp hands heartily as soldiers of America, and every battle monument becomes a pledge of peace which the folly of demagogues shall not be permitted to disturb.

Our Natural Gas Supply.

Natural gas has proven a most valuable fuel in Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and throughout the region within easy reach of the wells, and its use has been of especial importance to the iron industries. At first it was supposed that the supply was inexhaustible and great enterprises were projected upon the basis of this supposition. Experience has shown that this is not the case and the decline in the supply, evidenced by the rapidly decreasing pressure, has of late begun to excite alarm.

It is shown by a recent report that the value of the gas consumed in Pennsylvania, which rose to $19,000,000 in 1888, has since that year gone down in a decreasing ratio, till it was less than $6,000,000 in 1895. The supply in Ohio and Indiana has likewise fallen off, and though manufacturers have learned the need of economy, so that there is much less waste than formerly, it is apparent that natural gas cannot be counted upon as a fuel of the future.

Still, it is not exhausted yet and it has served already a good purpose in diminishing the consumption of coal and thus prolonging to some extent the store of that fuel. The scientific men are warning us that the coal supply also is not inexhaustible, but before the coal gives out no doubt some other fuel will be discovered, or science will have found a way to make a little fuel produce so much more heat that posterity will not be left to perish.

Improved Social Conditions.

It would be hopeless to attempt to prove that the present state of mankind is as bad as in preceding ages. It is a peculiarity of the human mind that it exagerates the evils of a present time, while those of the past are softened by the haze of distance, but the most hurried reading of the history of social life must force the conclusion that the progress of the world toward a higher moral and intellectual and humane condition has been steady and rapid. The material conditions of life have kept even pace with the moral growth. Perhaps the student of religious history may find a decay of faith, due, perhaps, to the intellectual advancement and to the lack of those oppressions and restrictions that have characterized the ages of devotion, but that the lot of civilized man has improved and is improving, it would be folly to deny.

The best and most truthful indications of the spirit of an age are the degree of comfort of the mass of mankind and the activity of the humane and benevolent sentiments. The establishment and extension of the free school system which places education within the reach of all and gives to the child of poverty the opportunity to reach the utmost limit of its capacity; the benefits of free libraries, picture galleries, art and other museums; the free use of public parks and gardens, public baths, hospitals and the like; the benefits of public sanitation, and of all the inventions that have reduced the cost of producing many of the necessaries of life; of streets filled with cars that are superior to the carriages of the few for the needs of the common man—all these things are proofs of a degree of comfort in living unknown to mankind in any other age.

The human aspects of life show the same measure of improvement in the abolition of human slavery, in the restriction and regulation of child and female labor in factories, in the compulsory education of all children, in the penal reforms, the limitation of capital punishment, the abolition of imprisonment for debt, and the general softening of the brutalities and hardships of life. To the industrious and thrifty there is far more of pleasantness in life now than ever before. The progress in all directions is not accidental and temporary, but the product of firmly established social principles.

James Cherry, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Cherry, of East Lewis street, has returned to Chicago.

Most Ancient City of the Earth.

It gives the American people a feeling of pride and satisfaction to know that a scientific expedition from their country has achieved one of the most important steps of progress ever made in the field of archæology. It is more than a nine days' wonder that the professors from the University of Pennsylvania have discovered in Asia the ruins of a city at least 9,000 years old.

The commonly accepted belief is that the world is now about 6,000 years old. There is, however, no direct Bible authority for this belief. The chronology of the Bible and the age of the world were originally computed by an English clergyman. Using the genealogical tables of the Scriptures as a guide, he calculated as best he could the supposed age of the world, and he made it 4,004 years up to the birth of Christ. The records of the subterranean city of Nipur, in Mesopotamia, the city unearthed by the Pennsylvania expedition, show that it existed in a high state of civilization at least 7,000 years before Christ.

This most ancient Nipur was a city beneath a city. In all time there has been a curious tendency to build new temples and churches upon the sites of old ones. The discovery of a second temple underneath a temple of Bel led to the unearthing of an entire Nipur beneath a Nipur, which itself dated back to most ancient known times. The discoverers of this subcellar Nipur, so to speak, believe it was destroyed by the deluge described in the Bible, since it is at least 30 feet under ground and the soil which covers it is alluvial.

But, whether overwhelmed by floods or not, the tendency of all buildings is to sink into the ground and be covered out of sight at last. Is this because the earth's crust is soft and yielding or because it is growing thicker by increase upon its surface, increase through falling star dust perhaps? This is an interesting question.

The Venezuelan Settlement.

It may now be considered settled that the Venezuelan boundary question will be settled. Lord Salisbury himself has taken the initiative in a wholly agreeable manner. His proposal originally was that a commission of two Americans and two Britons should be appointed to examine and make report on the disputed territory. After that the real tribunal of arbitration should be appointed to act on the first commission's recommendations. The arbitration commission should be composed, according to Salisbury's idea, of one Venezuelan, one Briton, and a third to be chosen by the first two. Undoubtedly he would be an American.

This commission, the noble lord proposed, should settle permanently the boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana. But if their decision turned over to Great Britain Venezuelan subjects or to Venezuela British subjects who had been upon the disputed lands previous to 1887, then, in so far as it did this, it could not stand. Here again, however, Salisbury practically concedes all that can be asked, for he says in substance that his government will consider the recommendations of the commission of arbitration even in such cases.

On the last day of August, 20e years ago, Abdul Hamid II, "Abdul the Damned," as a British poet calls him, was proclaimed sultan of Turkey. Dispatches announce that the twentieth anniversary of his accession to the throne has been ceremoniously observed. A jolly anniversary it must have been, truly, with the Cretan rebellion not yet settled, Turkish soldiers still butchering Armenians on sight, houses and temples in Constantinople stained with the blood of the sultan's subjects and the streets full of mobs, murder and rioting, the empire bankrupt, foreign soldiers and marines crowding the city and the powers of Europe looking on with lowering brows. Would it be really kind to wish Abdul Hamid II many returns of the day?

One of the most tremendous artificial lights ever constructed will soon be in place in Kansas City. It is an electric light and so powerful that when fixed upon the top of a building like some of the tallest of the structures in Chicago it would be plainly seen 20 miles away. From the height of an ordinary building it can be seen 12 miles. It is so penetrating that it will pierce the densest fog for a distance of 2,000 feet. A light like this on board a ship would prevent collision in any darkness or obscuration. It is a light of more than a million candle power.

A learned anatomist announced long ago that woman had not so much gray matter in her brain as man has; therefore she is inferior. Professor Cesare Lombroso says she has not man's sensitiveness to physical pain; therefore she is inferior. And now comes another scientist and avers that she cannot smell as well as a man can. It remains for the next philosopher to discover that there isn't any such creature as woman at all.

A German professor proves to his own satisfaction that a high state of civilization is not conducive to long life. He proves it by the fact that, while Germany, with a population of 55,000,000, has only 78 persons past the age of 100, France, with 40,000,000 inhabitants, has 213 centenarians.

Science has noted and classified stars down to the fourteenth magnitude. But they are only visible to the naked eye down to the sixth magnitude. The rest have been discovered by aid of the telescope and photograph. And altogether, of stars visible and invisible, 40,000,000 have been noted and numbered.

It requires more real courage to live on in this life bravely and well, doing always the duty that lies nearest, facing every difficulty as it comes and overcoming it, than it does to die. And it is much more credit to one.

The American head and the American foot are different from those of other nations. Both are comparatively long and narrow. For this reason American hats and American shoes are not greatly successful as articles of export.

Andree, the Swede, made a great fuss about crossing the pole in a balloon and then gave up the enterprise. He waited till it was too late to start. Next time he enters on the undertaking the public will believe more in his sincerity if he talks less.

Saginaw	50	18	32	.360
Washington	48	16	32	.333

The error column tells the tale of yesterday's game between Fort Wayne and Toledo at Lakeside park. One of the largest crowds of the season was on the grounds when time was called at 3 o'clock. Those in attendance—at least most of them—had but one desire, and that was that Fort Wayne would win. Neither side scored until the sixth inning, when "Reddy" Grey made a hit, which Vetters fumbled, and he reached second and scored on Criger's hit. That ended our run getting. In the seventh, with two men out, Cecil made a long drive to left center, which Grey, by a hard effort, got his hands on for a moment and then dropped, and Cecil reached second. This was followed by Fisher fumbling Hartman's effort and Cecil was advanced to third and scored on Vetter's hit. The Mud Hens scored two more in the eighth and thus made it sure. At the beginning of the game retiring Captain Tebeau was presented with a beautiful boquet of flowers on behalf of his admirers. He doffed his cap in acknowledgment. Captain Tebeau will carry with him the best wishes of all Fort Wayne base ball lovers The same is true of Louie Criger, who was in the game yesterday for the last time. He was by all odds the best catcher in the Interstate league, besides being a safe hitter. From this time on Mike Lynch will cover first and Johnny Welch will be behind the bat. Lynch will captain the team. The score:

Mrs G. H. Short, of Howell street, and Frank D Pearse are among the many heirs to the Harlem and Aneke Jans immense fortune, amounting to something like $300,000,000. The courts have recently passed a decision by which a part of the money will be distributed and the Fort Wayne parties expect to come in for a share. There is a long and interesting history connected with this fortune, dating back to some time in 1600 when King Jans died in Holland.

The Diether Lumber company has received the contract to furnish the lumber for a large cold storage house to be erected for Wilkens Bros., in their packing house business. The new building will be erected under the rights of patents taken out by the Jackson Refrigerator company. It will be located on Wilkens Bros.' land in Nebraska, near the Grand Rapids railroad. These gentlemen conduct the Broadway meat market in connection with their other business.

Several sportsmen of the city, who make a practice of taking a trip in the fall of every year, are getting together their hunting paraphernalia for an invasion of the tramping grounds of the deer and other large game. M. C. Baker, passenger agent of the Nickel Plate, who is authority on the subject, says that Wisconsin is the promised land this year. This state has plenty of game and is liberal in its laws. It allows the hunter to take from the state two deer, while other states will not permit any to be carried away.

Kendallville News: "S. K. Randall, of Avilla, was in the city on last Friday. S. K. is not in accord with his brother, Perry, of Fort Wayne, on the financial question and takes no stock in the fifty-three cent dollar and the benefit to the mine owner if free coinage of silver wins. S K. is no gold bug and believes that prosperity to this country can only come through the rise in farm products."

The spelling school given last evening at the Wayne street M. E church by the Epworth league was a very enjoyable affair. It was preceded by solos sung by Miss Lotta Smith and Miss Abbie Bennet and the recitation by Miss Ethel Jenness of a chapter from the "Hoosier Schoolmaster." Miss Jenness is a charming reader. She has a clear and distinct voice and a naturalness and grace that renders her reading entertaining In the spelling contest Mr. C. H. Newton was the pronouncer and the Misses Aker and Urbain the leaders of the opposing spellers. This was the feature of the evening's program and caused considerable merriment.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with an actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

The engines to haul the trains, with their crews, went up earlier in the day, running light as sections of train No. 37. The crews were:

Engineers J. Mooney, Ed McDonald, C. J. Peasons, Chester Durnell, M. Laughlin, E. H. Rogers and F. F. Whitney; Firemen F. Simonson, F. Johnson, W. R. Kilgore, J. C. Polhamus, M. Brucks, W. F. Jungles and E. Blanchard, seven in number. The other four engine crews had not been selected when the reporter called at the round house.

FOOT BADLY HURT.

Riley Evans is confined to his home, corner of Calhoun and Williams street, with a badly injured foot. Mr. Evans is a conductor on a Grand Rapids local freight and while engaged in unloading freight at Vicksburg, Mich., a gang plank used to connect the car with the platform slipped from the latter, letting him down. A box of freight fell and crushed his right foot. Conductor Thomas Coleman has charge of the train.

A CALLER MARRIED.

Joseph A. Deahl and Miss Laura A. Sauer were married at the home of the bride's parents, a few miles in the country, last evening, the ceremony being witnessed by the relatives and a few friends of the bride and goom. The couple is among our most respected young citizens and have hosts of friends who wish them a long happy and prosperous life. Mr. Deahl is a caller at the Nickel Plate yards. Some weeks ago he told his comrades he contemplated matrimony, but as he is somewhat of a joker, the boys thought he was joking then also. They have since learned that he was in earnest. Mr. and Mrs. Deahl will reside in the city and he will continue to work for the Nickel Plate. The groom is a son of Conductor Deahl and a brother of Brakeman Deahl, both of the Nickel Plate.

HANDSOMELY REMEMBEERED

The Washington correspondents have not forgotten the handsome treatment they received from George W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania, on the occasion of their trip west to attend the republican and democratic conventions. The trip was made over the Pennsylvania lines, under the personal supervision of Mr. Boyd, and in token of the correspondents' appreciation of his services, they presented him with a souvenir charm, to be worn with a fob. It is composed of gold and silver throughout in distinct parts. A circular disk, on one side gold and on the reverse silver, swings in a frame, one half of which is gold and one half silver. The gold side of the charm bears the inscription, "St. Louis, June 16, 1896," enclosing the monogram, 'G. W. B." The silver side is inscribed, 'Chicago, July 7, 1896," with the keystone of the Pennsylvania company in the center, bearing the monogram "P. R. R" The buckle for the silk guard is also one-half gold and one-half silver. On the beveled edges of the gold and silver disks are the words, "To Mr. George W. Boyd, From the Washington Correspondents."

GEORGIA CAINE.

Brilliant and Charming Actress Pays a Visit to Fort Wayne.

Has Played a Part Since Childhood and Holds an Enviable Position in Her Profession.

An interesting visitor in the city today is Georgia Caine, the talented actress She is accompanied by her husband, Charles Winters, and registered at the New Aveline for the day, while en route from New York to St. Louis, where she joins her company.

Georgia Caine, as she is professionally known, was too fatigued from her journey to submit to a reporter's interview, but her husband, a pleasant gentleman, vouchsafed some information that is interesting to all persons who keep pace with the dramatic events of the day.

Miss Caine has within the past two years attained an enviable position in the comic opera. Like many other clever actresses, she inherits her histrionic talent from clever parents, both of whom are well known on the American stage. Her father is George R. Caine, and her mother plays under the name of Jennie Daragh. They are both with the "In Old Kentucky" company this season.

Miss Caine made her debut as a child actress in San Francisco, and although she was much in demand after that for child parts, her parents very wisely declined to allow her school education to suffer on that account. While attending school at Notre Dame she was only allowed to fill engagements during her vacations. After graduating from Wolf Hall in Denver, Miss Caine joined the Denver stock company, when she received an all round training, appearing in many diverse parts. Three years ago she came east, and in the course of the season was engaged for the boy's part in About Gotham. Last season she was engaged by D. W. Truss to fill the part of Malaya in Wang. the role in which Della Fox had originally appeared. Her work was universally praised by press and public, and her success brought her advantageous offers of engagements for the present season.

Fortunately for the Miner Brooks syndicate, she consented to act as understudy for Jennie Goldthwaite during the Chicago performance of 'Lost, Strayed or Stolen," last June. After the piece had been on the boards about a week, word came one day that Miss Goldthwaite was too ill to appear, and Miss Caine, who had been playing a nursemaid in the last act, was called upon to take the leading part at short notice. As one of the Chicago critics put it, she 'lightly leaped into prominence through personal merit." She was naturally very nervous under the circumstances, but as the part of Rose is that of a nervous, emotional French actress, her nervousness rather counted in her favor, and she made such a hit that she has been engaged to play the part for the present season, and will appear with the company when 'Lost, Strayed or Stolen" is brought out at the Fifth Avenue theater next Monday night.

Nature has endowed Miss Caine with personal beauty. This is undoubtedly a great advantage for a young actress nowadays, but what has given her special prominence in comic opera is the advantage of possessing a pleasant mezzo soprano voice and unusual histrionic ability.

The Star Chamber Lock.

The veritable lock and key of the famous Star Chamber were sold at Christie's rooms, London, recently. The lock is soundly made of brass, and though decorated to a certain extent is plain compared with the key, which is a wonderful piece of fretted steel. The metal is of a beautiful temper, otherwise it seems impossible that the stem should not snap off if there were the slightest hitch in the turning of the lock. On both sides are portrayed crowned heads, presumably of Charles I.

COVERED WITH SCALES

Eczema made its appearance on my head in its worst form, and it continued spreading until my face was covered with scales and became a horrid sight. I had a fine head of hair, seven years' growth, and had to sacrifice it. I was in despair. The physicians had failed even to relieve me, when one recommended CUTICURA SOAP. My father procured a set of CUTICURA REMEDIES, and in three weeks the scales left my face and the skin lost its florid hue. In six weeks I was entirely cured. My face was smooth and my complexion clearer and finer than it had ever been before.

MARRIED IN HASTE.

Remarkable Case of Love at First Sight Quickly Culminates in Matrimony.

One evening recently Irwin T. Barrett of Louisville visited a roof garden in New York with a friend named Walters, who is a resident of the empire city. Barrett's father, a banker, died two months ago, leaving the young man a fortune of $25,000. While the two gentlemen were sipping their wine on the roof garden Miss Grace Russell, a pretty young actress, who has met with moderate success, entered and sat down at the next table in company with an acquaintance. The city friend of Barrett was known to Miss Russell and introduced the young Kentuckian, who was instantaneously and badly smitten with the charms of the fair Grace. The two entered into lively conversation, Barrett growing more and more enamored every moment, until he astonished the young woman by asking her to marry him. Miss Russell, after some maidenly hesitation, and with the assurance of Walters that young Barrett was an eligible parti, blushingly consented, and the whole party at once repaired to the home of the nearest resident clergyman. There the knot was tied, the time-table of the extraordinary affair being about as follows: At 8 p. m.,

MRS. BARRETT.

Miss Russell entered with Mlle. Liska, a dancer. At 8:03 Walters had introduced Barrett to Miss Russell. At 8:05 they drank claret lemonade together. At 8:07 they fell in love with each other. At 8:13 they were talking of getting married. At 8:19 Barrett was telling what his financial standing was. At 8:25 they informed Walters that they were going out to get married. At 9 Rev. Wilhelm G. Busse, pastor of the Forty-second Street Lutheran church, made them man and wife. Mrs. J. Houle, the clergyman's housekeeper, and James Stewart, the cab driver, were the witnesses.

CAPTAIN HOYT DEAD.

The Helena Quartermaster Succumbs to Apoplexy.

WASHINGTON, Sept 17.—The war department has been advised of the death of Capt. Geo. S Hoyt, quartermaster at Helena, Mont, today from apoplexy. He was born in New Hampshire and appointed to the army from Wisconsin in 1867. His death creates a vacancy in the quartermaster's department.

A Word or Two
to those suffering from catarrh or the thousands subject to severe attacks of cold in the head, will not be amiss if a sure remedy can be offered. Ely's Cream Balm has become a favorite in all sections of the United States, because of its effectiveness. Your cold in the head will be quickly relieved by it, and the severest attack of catarrh will yield to, and be perfectly cured by a thorough treatment. Catarrh is not a blood disease, but an inflammation of the passages of the nose and throat, due to climatic changes.

Desperate Remedies.

"Yesterday was an unusually hot day, wasn't it?"

"Yes, it must have been; saw Mr. Higgins walking round in his front yard with his wig off."—Chicago Record.

THE LAW SAYS SO AND DECENCY COMPELS US TO.

Now if this be true, it is important that we be as WELL DRESSED as possible. The immortal Bard said: "That dress oft proclaims the man." This is absolutely true. In olden times it took "nine tailors to make a man." Now all that is necessary is to come to our establishment and buy one of our CELEBRATED HAMMERSLOUGH BROS. FAMOUS SUITS and he would be better dressed than any nine tailors in the city could possibly dress him, and for a great many dollars less.

The Little Ones Can't Go Naked, Especially When It Gets Colder, and the Law Won't Let Them Anyway.

So we are provided with all grades of Children's Clothing to fit any size child or any size purse. In this department can always be found a full line of the VERY LATEST NOVELTIES. We aim to carry the VERY FINEST GARMENTS made for the little ones. Novelties in all prices, and grades of goods. We carry a full line of Sailors Suits, suits with two pants. We also carry an enormous stock of EXTRA PANTS in all sizes, prices and qualities.

We Are Now Showing Fall and Winter Styles in Suits.

Come and examine our immense stock and we will be pleased to show you and your friends The Styles That Are Going To Be The "Rage" This Fall and Winter.

Thousands Gather at Canton

To Formally Open the Campaign,

Banks, Stores and Factories Closed,

And the Day Given Over to Pleasure.

Democrats, Populists and Republicans Unite in Decorating, and Beautifying the City.

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 18.—Canton was up late last night looking over her wardrobe and selecting the brightest and best. Canton was up early this morning and robed in raiment gorgeous and elaborate. The formal opening of the campaign in the home city of the republican nominee occurs today and that Canton might appear at her best and do herself and her guests credit was the occasion of all the hustle and hurry.

Streets are strung with streamers and banners and flags; arches with welcoming mottos span prominent thoroughfares; buildings, public and private, are draped with flags and bunting; pictures of McKinley and Hobart are displayed in thousands of windows.

Nature lent her assistance to the decorators with a day approaching perfection. It is bright and sunshiny, but cool enough to prevent prostrations or serious discomfort to marchers. Advance announcement drew evidence of an enormous crowd, but the most sanguine indications are that expectations will be exceeded. Many shops and factories closed for the entire day. Some of the business houses opened only for a few hours of early morning trade; others closed at noon. Offices in general did not open and banks also suspended business for the day after the luncheon hour. So far as Canton is concerned it is largely a non-partisan demonstration, people of all parties uniting in decorations and in giving the day over to the celebration.

Bright and early there came from Little Sandy township a club of 200 uniformed men and nearly the whole of the populace of the township. At the square they met similar parties from other directions in the county. Then came 400 farmers from Carroll county. By this time the special trains, at which more than fifty are scheduled, began to arrive and the delegations from outside the county poured in almost faster than they could be counted.

The notable uniformed delegations present are the Young Men's Tariff club and the American club, of Pittsburg; the Elkins cadets, of Wheeling; the Tippecanoe club, of Cleveland, and the Wheelmen's club, from Cleveland and Detroit, who left their train at a suburban station and rode into the city in parade order. At noon the hustle and hurry of parade organization began. The parade moved in four divisions of foot men and a large contingent of wheelmen and carriages. Pennsylvania, West Virginia and other states formed the first division; Ohio, outside of Starke county, the second; Starke county, outside of Canton, the third, and Canton the fourth. Each of the notable delegations was assigned a position of honor. Major McKinley, the visiting speakers, the officers of the day and guests of honor rode in open carriages at the head of the parade.

A short line of march brought the parade to a monster tent with accommodations for twenty thousand people. Here the first meeting was held, Governor Bushnell presiding and making a short introductory address. There was music by the combined bands and campaign songs by the Pittsburg Tariff League quartet and Acelian quartet. Addresses were made by Senators Cullom, of Illinois, and Thurston, of Nebraska. In the evening, with brilliant illuminations, another parade still be made and another meeting held in the tents. Governor Hastings, of Pennsylvania, and Congressman McCleary, of Minnesota, are to be the speakers.

SENATOR CULLOM'S SPEECH.

"Mr. Altgeld and other democratic leaders say the present dollar is a 200 cent dollar, while the dollar before 1873 was a 100 cent dollar. In the first place the statement is not correct, but if it were, which would you rather have, a dollar worth 200 or a dollar worth fifty cents? They say nobody ever saw a fifty cent dollar. Nobody ever saw any dollar in coin that would not circulate anywhere in this country, and in many foreign countries, at its nominal value. Suppose it is true that our dollars are 200 cent dollars. How many of these have we in circulation? According to the last treasury statement we have more than $1,500,000,000, consisting of gold, silver and paper, one dollar just as good as another, a per capita circulation of nearly $22. If Bryan, Altgeld and their associates are right, then our money in circulation is equal to $3,000,000,000, or about $44 per capita. As their platform only calls for $20 per capita, they ought to be satisfied with $44.

Let us see what would happen in the event of the success of the nominees of the Chicago convention. Our gold would leave us to be hoarded, that is certain—a contraction of $600,000,000. The remainder of our money would shrink in purchasing power equal to the difference between the par value of the dollar and the bullion price of silver. That difference is now about 47 cents. So that our circulation would be contracted to that extent and we would have less than $8 per capita in circulation of actual money where we now have $22. Mr. Bryan says we would no doubt have a panic at first after the adoption of free coinage. He admits that much. He does not say that it will be the last little wave which will wet the toes and scare the timorous, or whether it will be a tidal wave which will engulf the nation.

We are not children in experience. We had our fingers burned four years ago, and they are yet sore from the effects of the fire. Wm. J. Bryan told us then that trade was just what was needed; that our troubles were all due to the tariff. He now tells us that we must have free silver; that it will be a crime against humanity to longer refuse it; that all mankind has been suffering untold misery since 1873 on account of the demonetization of silver. You know better. Will you take his advice again? I do not think you will.

There is no use deceiving ourselves in delying with this question. We have more gold and more silver than we ever had before, and altogether more circulating medium than we ever had before, and we have no money that is not on par with gold, which is the recognized money of the commercial world. Let us but run off after moonshine theories pressed upon us by Bryan, Tillman and Altgeld and men who may be honest but who are urging the people of the country to adopt a policy or try an experiment in defiance of the facts of history and in defiance of the best judgment of the wisest minds of all ages in the world.

"The republican party is for bimetallism. It believes in the use of both gold and silver as money. It believes in the admission of both to the mints of the United States on equal terms as soon as it can be done with safety and honor. Our party is pledged to it in the St. Louis platform.

"Within the last three days once upon the country, there have always been men, calling themselves by some party name, who tried to ride into power on the misery and discontent of their countrymen. But, thank God, they have always failed, and will fail again. Four years ago the Cleveland party was successful on the tariff issue. What followed is familiar to you all—hard times, misery and distress, such as was never experienced before by this generation. Two years ago the country again turned to the republican party for relief. The great majority they sent to the house of representatives with power given to afford relief. Why? Because the silver trust, led by the senators from the silver states, was strong enough in the senate to bind them hand and foot, and absolutely refused to permit any bill affording more revenue for the support of the government to pass unless it contained a free coinage amendment. They were willing to allow the country to go to universal bankruptcy and even revolution itself to accomplish their ends. It is but a repetition of what was attempted eighteen years ago under the leadership of some of the men who are now at the head of the silver conspiracy. They threatened to starve the government to death unless they were allowed to repeal certain laws which were obnoxious to them. Did the country approve of their action? The election returns answer the question.

I believe the effort of the present conspirators to starve the country into the adoption of the free and unlimited coinage of silver will as signally fail. They tell us we need more money; that an inflation of the currency, such as would follow the free coinage of silver, would result in higher prices for all the products of the farm, etc. Such has always been the cry of men who desired to obtain something for nothing. They tell the farmer he will get higher prices for his produce with free coinage, and they tell the laborer at the same time that he will have more work and higher wages. All history shows that the price of labor is the last to go down and the last to go up. The democrats propose in some mysterious way to suspend the law of supply and demand. There is not the slightest doubt that the unlimited free coinage of silver in this country would bring down wages. And that is what many who favor free trade and free coinage want.

One of the dangers of this country is the reduction of wages. It will be a sad day when the wages of the laborer in the United States shall be reduced to the level of those of China, Japan and Mexico. When the time comes we might control the markets of the world, but it would be at the expense of our republican government and of our civilization. When the wage earner is pauperized in this country the power and glory of our government have departed."

Receives a Hearty Welcome in North Carolina.

GOLDSBORO, N. C., Sept. 18.—Wm. J. Bryan arrived here at 11:20 last night, where the private car he is traveling in was side tracked until 9 o'clock this morning, at which hour he delivered an address from a platform to a large crowd which had been waiting since early morning. He had the following to say today about the action of the Buffalo convention: "I am very much gratified to learn that the New York convention endorsed the platform as well as the ticket."

HAIL, WIND AND RAIN.

Eastern Pennsylvania the Scene of a Storm.

Houses Unroofed, Windows Broken, Trees Stripped of Their Fruit and Timber Flooded.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 18.—The storm of wind, hail and rain which swept over the eastern part of Pennsylvania last night, was the most severe that has visited this section in a long time. Scores of buildings were unroofed, some of them utterly ruined, thousands of panes of window glass and many skylights were shattered, while the apple and other late crops were almost totally destroyed. The storm was the most severe in Chester, Montgomery, Berks, Bucks, Lehigh and Lycoming counties. In the vicinity of Hatfield, Montgomery county, about thirty houses and barns were unroofed. Two grist mills, owned by George Snyder, were totally wrecked, together with his dwelling. Reports received from Shenandoah state that all the apple orchards in the Catawissa valley have been stripped of their fruit. Three thousand panes of glass were broken. The green houses of J. L. Dalson, at Bloomsburg, were damaged to the amount of $3,000, and several houses were unroofed. In Williamsport and vicinity great damage was done. George Weikel, a farmer, was killed by lightning while at work in his cornfield. A portion of the Williamsport rolling mill was blown down and every window on the north and west sides of the big Central avenue school building was broken. Fruit trees in the Blake Hole valley were stripped of fruit. The country surrounding Reading suffered considerable. Many houses and barns were badly damaged. Fruit trees and windows near West Chester suffered severely from the large hail stones and heavy winds.

PAY CAR WRECKED.

Ran Into a Freight, Which It Was Following.

Conductor, Engineer and Two Firemen Killed and Six Others Badly Injured.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—Four men were killed and a number of others badly injured this morning in a wreck on the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton, near Connersville, Ind., about forty miles east of here. The dead are:

Christ Sweetman, engineer, Dayton.
——— Kinney, fireman, Cincinnati.
——— Lodge House, conductor, Indianapolis.
——— Hughes, fireman, Hamilton.

THE INJURED.

Paymaster Jaussen, badly hurt.
Assistant Paymaster Scallon, slightly injured.
——— Fishbeck, porter of pay car, badly hurt.
E. Wilsong, foreman of bridges and buildings, badly hurt.
J. M. Rourke, roadmaster, slightly injured.
——— Conner, engineer, Hamilton, supposed to be fatally hurt.

The accident was one of the worst that has happened in this part of the state for years. The pay car was following the regular freight train, No. 94, east-bound. Both were running as extra trains.

The freight stopped at Longwood and put part of the train on to a siding, taking the rest to Salter's switch. The crew took the engine of the freight and started back to Longwood.

When one and one-half miles east of Longwood, the wild engine met the pay car. It was down grade and impossible to stop. The two engines came together with a terrible crash and the pay car was thrown onto its side in the ditch. Paymaster King is so badly hurt that he cannot possibly live.

FOUGHT FOR A GIRL.

Pugilists Settle a Rivalry in the Ring.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—It took twenty-eight rounds of desperate bare knuckles fighting to settle a grudge that has existed for a long time between Jimmy Britt, once champion bantam weight of the coast, and Frank Lawler, another well known athlete. Britt and Lawler were formerly friends, but had a falling out over a member of the fair sex and decided to settle the controversy in a bare knuckle finish fight. Both being members of a well known athletic club in the Mission that has turned out a great many good boxers, it was decided to hold the match there. The favored few who were to be present selected a well known sporting man as referee and the combatants stripped and went to work. The first three rounds consisted of but give and take work with the result that both men showed signs of distress when the fourth was called. From the fifth to the twelfth, however, the fighting was fast with honors about even. Then both took things easy until the twentieth round, when another three rally nearly resulted in Britt going out from a right hand swing that landed on his neck. He recovered in the next round and from that to the twenty-eighth round he had a shade the best of the argument, Lawler being tired. As there seemed to be little chance of a finish and both men were terribly punished, the referee called the match a draw.

FT. WAYNE PRESBYTERY

The Sessions Will Be Held at Bethany Church and Will Begin Next Monday Evening.

The Presbytery of Fort Wayne, consisting of one minister and one ruling elder from each Presbyterian church within the bounds of the eleven counties in northeast Indiana, will convene in Bethany church, Nebraska, next Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

While the sessions of the Presbytery on Tuesday will be mostly of a business nature, the evening conventions are of interest to the general public and all are cordially welcomed to enjoy the feast of good things spread by some of the most eminent divines in this portion of the country.

On Monday evening Rev. F. C. Colvin, the energetic pastor of the Auburn church, will preach the sermon as retiring moderator. Mr. Colvin is one of the youngest members who has rapidly risen in favor with his brethren until he now holds the highest office in the gift of the Presbytery. After the sermon there will be the usual election of a new moderator for the present session.

The delegates will be royally entertained by the people of Bethany, who are glad to welcome the Presbytery in their new and beautiful church. A pleasant feature of the entertainment will be the dinner and supper served in the social room by the ladies. It would be hard to find a more pleasing crowd than a lot of preachers and elders and they appear at their best when seated around a big table.

On Tuesday evening there will be a popular meeting, at which a few distinguished "men of the cloth" will address the people on subjects relevant to the work of the Presbyterian church. Rev. Geo. G. Mackintosh, of Indianapolis, a prominent theologian; Rev. S. Y. Hill, son of Watson, but recently of Chicago; Dr. D. W. Moffat, who needs no introduction to Fort Wayne, and Dr. R. L. Vanuxa, of Goshen, the rector of the Presbytery, will give short and pointed addresses.

Good music will be furnished for both evening services by the Clarion quartet, of Bethany, and the Haydn, of the First church.

As the entertainment of this prominent body of Christian workers is eagerly sought after by the individual churches, who deem it an honor, the people of Bethany are to be congratulated upon securing their presence in their own midst and the city at large.

GEORGE JACOBS,

The Well Known Musician, Establishes in the Piano and Organ Business.

George Jacobs has opened a music store at 14 East Berry street, where he will be pleased to have the public call and see his new stock of pianos and organs. He handles the World Renowned Crown Pianos that were selected for every state building at the World's Fair, with the wonderful orchestral attachment and practice clavier, which enables the player to imitate twelve different instruments. Others have tried to imitate, but no other has ever attained one-tenth of the merit. The piano itself possesses a powerful, deep, rich tone, and the action is perfection. He also has in stock the popular Bush & Gerts piano, which gives the best value for the money obtainable. He has the agency for the celebrated Hazelton Bros' pianos which are so well known to the public as strictly high grade instruments that they need no comment from us. The organs handled in his store are the Geo. P. Bent and Newman Bros., of Chicago, both first class instruments.

Mr. Jacobs does not profess to sell below cost, as most dealers say they do, but guarantees to give you a square deal and sell you on a smaller profit than anyone else. Be kindly solicits a visit to his store where you will be able to judge for yourself.

Eli Stumpf, of the law firm of Cingham & Stumpf, met with a distressing accident while alighting from a street car last evening. He stepped on a cobble stone, turning his foot and fracturing the bones. The injury will confine him to the house for some time.

In a fight which occurred last night in Mendel Frank's place Joseph Schramm assaulted his brother in law, William Bosser, and beat him pretty badly about the head.

HUGH DOUGHERTY.

Free Coinage Essential to Maintenance of Good Government and the Return of Prosperity.

The Hon. Hugh Dougherty, the Bluffton banker, who is well known throughout Indiana, is another western banker who has become convinced that the election of Bryan and the restoration of silver are imperatively essential to the maintenance of good government and the return of prosperity.

He has but recently come to this conclusion and the reasons for the faith that is now within him are stated frankly in the following extract from a personal and business letter to a friend in Muncie:

"There is no doubt in my mind as to my duty in this campaign, and that is to support Bryan and Sewall with all my power and energy. My business is one that is as sensitive as any, unless it might be large manufacturing concerns. But I have no fear of Bryan and Sewall's election interfering with my business, but on the contrary I feel that after the first three months business will improve and prices will advance all along the line. I probably take a different view than some people on this money question. The production of gold in this country being about sixtenths of all the production in the world settles the question in my mind as to our duty in protecting silver, and to stay by it as the basic money. All this talk about sound money, and illustrating it by saying that a gold dollar melted down is worth a dollar, but a silver dollar melted down is only worth fifty cents, only shows that what we want to do is to give silver free coinage so that it will pay off the debts of the farmers at 100 cents on the dollar, double the value of every product that he raises, and when the silver dollar is melted down will be worth 100 cents at any bank wherever you present it, because it can be sent back and recoined into a dollar. The paper currency that you mention was only worth about fifty cents on the dollar during the time that the greatest portion of our bonds were issued, and the bondholders who bought our bonds at that time brought their gold from Liverpool and London and exchanged in our bonds at about forty cents. There has never been a time that those bonds were payable in gold, but were always payable in coin. There has never been a time when the greenback was payable in gold; it has always been paid out in coin.

"That is not only true as to the laws on the statute, which is sufficient notice to all the investors, both in European and in America, but in addition to that Stanley Matthews, of Ohio, in 1878 offered a resolution in the United States senate, which passed both houses, declaring that it was the option of this country to pay our government bonds and greenbacks in silver dollars or 412½ grains weight, which answers all the argument about 'repudiation.'

"But the policy of the country, began by Secretary Foster under Harrison and which will be continued if McKinley is elected, has been to defy the statutes and to override the policy as declared by congress to pay these bonds and the greenback currency in gold which has had the result of appreciating until it is now worth 200 cents in silver, wheat, corn, horses and everything else we produce, be the farmers of this country. These are things that I well know all along these many years. But the knowledge came to me in broken doses, and I never thought to apply it to the troubles that we were undergoing and the distress that the farmers are now in until it came to me through the discussion in this campaign. I have never seen a time in all my life that I felt so earnest and ambitious as I am now to do something to promote the interest of free coinage and Bryan and Sewall's election. I am fully aware of the trouble we will have in carrying Bryan through, because of the great money leaders of this country furnishing money to the republican party to carry through this campaign. And on the other side, I fully appreciate the poverty of the democratic organization. Still I think the next two months will educate the people in the states like Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois and the west until Bryan may have a safe majority even in defiance of the money power."

MEAN BUSINESS.

State Liquor League Meets at Indianapolis.

Will Support Only Candidates Who Are in Sympathy With Them—The Nicholson Law Denounced.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 18.—The Indiana State Liquor league held its annual meeting here yesterday with eighty delegates, representing as many subordinate organizations, were in attendance.

Mayor Taggart welcomed the delegates in a speech in which he said the saloonkeepers are engaged in a legal business and had a right to the protection of the law. The league determined to oppose the candidacy for office of all men, regardless of party, who are not in sympathy with their business. The Nicholson law was denounced and the people were called upon to assist in getting it off the statute books.

George Teppee, of Anderson, was chosen president of the league, and J. H. Bruner and P. J. Callen, both of this city, treasurer and secretary, respectively. The next meeting will be held at Anderson.

Distinguished German Orator Speaks at Fuff's Hall Tonight—Election of Democratic and Republican Meetings.

Ex Congressman A. N. Martin, of Bluffton, addressed quite a large audience of democrats last night from the south steps of the court house, where a temporary stage had been erected by the Loyal Hall Democracy, under auspices the meeting was held. The Robinson quartet entertained the assembly with several finely rendered campaign songs, after which P. W. Schaden introduced Mr. Martin, who proceeded at once to a discussion of the issues of the campaign. Mr. Martin while in congress was chairman of the house pension committee and was recognized as one of the ablest members of the Indiana delegation and one of the best speakers in that body. His speech last night was a plain and forcible discussion of the issues. He handled the financial question in a plain and practical manner and showed that with the free coinage of silver a return of prosperity would come to the people and the business interests of the country.

J. T. Brooks, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who resigned as a democratic elector in the state of Pennsylvania because of the free silver plank in the platform of the democratic national convention, will speak tonight at the Princess rink. The meeting will be preceded by a parade of the streets, participated in by the republican clubs of the city.

The democratic county committee has secured the services of Hon. Lawrence Becker to make a series of German speeches in this county. Mr. Becker comes here with the highest recommendation from the national democratic committee and is a gentleman thoroughly versed on finance and economic history. His first address will be made to the voters of the Seventh and Tenth wards next will be delivered at Fuff's hall this evening. He will speak in German only and there will be no English speaking whatever. The capacity of the hall is not over about 350, barely enough to accommodate the German speaking population of the two wards. On Monday evening Mr. Becker will speak at Trier's school house, in Adams township.

The republicans of the Second ward organized a McKinley club last evening. Col. D. N. Foster was elected president of the club; Dr. George B. Bower, secretary, and Henry H. Foltz, treasurer. Weekly meetings will be held on each Thursday night until election, with addresses by different speakers. The club has rented for its headquarters the store room at the southwest corner of Berry and Barr streets.

Democratic meetings were held at different points in the county last night the reports are that all of them were largely attended. Our candidate for congress, J. M. Robinson was at New Haven and delivered an able address. Mr. Robinson is always warmly welcomed by his audiences and this was the last meeting at New Haven. R. K. Erwin, of Decatur, also spoke at the same meeting. Judge S. M. Hench and C. T. Eversole, spoke at the Parker school house, in St. Joe township. Messrs. E. V. Emrick and Will E. Colerick addressed a silver meeting at Williamsport. Squire Sturgeon presided at the meeting. Judge O'Rourke spoke to the democrats in Pleasant township.

There will be a democratic meeting tonight at school house No. 3, near the county poor farm. Good speakers will be in attendance to address the people. There will be a watermelon barbecue during the evening.

Dr. J. W. Younge will discuss the silver question tonight at Hake's hall, on Wells street.

THEY "RODE THE GOAT."

Old Officer "Bobby" Dickson and Fifteen Others.

Sixteen was the number of gentlemen who appeared at the hall of No. 36, A. O. U. W., last evening and asked to be taught the mysteries of the order. It had previously been announced that a large class would be initiated and, as a consequence, nearly every seat in the large hall was occupied by members of the various Fort Wayne lodges. One of the candidates was Officer "Bobby" Dickson, of the police force, who has many a warm friend in the A. O. U. W. As is customary under such circumstances, it was decided that this individual be pushed through as easily as possible, but, as it was, the "goat" butted him here, there and everywhere that the mails would let him go and only for the timely interference of his friends he would have been badly shaken up. The First A. O. U. W. band was present and furnished some fine music. To add to the evening's entertainment, Messrs. Gus Holbrook and John A. McClellan rendered several vocal selections. J. M. Robinson was present and reviewed the benefits to be derived from a membership in this order. Rev. Albertson, one of the new members, spoke encouragingly of the prospects for the advancement of the order. At the close of the meeting a lunch was served.

FISHMAN FINED.

Sensational Proceedings Growing Out of a Religious Row.

A Dentistry at the Residence of Gus Rahm—Happenings in Police Circles.

The case of the state vs. Samuel Fishman came up in police court this morning in the presence of a large number of Jews attracted thereto by the sensational nature of the proceedings. Fishman was arraigned on the charge of confiscating the sacred book from the hall where a certain branch of the Hebrews had been worshiping in commemoration of the holy day of Yom Kippur. A large number of witnesses were examined and the evidence was of a mixed and contradictory nature, but to sum up. However, after members of both factions had taken a hand at being witnesses, attorneys and everything else and had indulged in more or less personal abuse, the mayor assessed a fine of $10 and costs against Fishman, which was paid.

The friends of Fishman claim that he had the authority to take charge of the holy book in controversy, as he had become personally responsible for its safe return to the congregation of Aeduth Vesholom temple, of which it was borrowed. The matter will, however, probably end where it is.

One of the outcomes of the affair is that Moses Hall fined an alleged to Justice Fence's court for disturbing a religious meeting.

A BURGLARY.

Daylight burglars completed a very neat job yesterday afternoon at the home of G. A. Rahm, at 264 West Berry street, the family being absent at the time. About 4 o'clock two men were seen by residents of the neighborhood coming out of the rear of the house. These workmen gave the matter little thought, supposing the men had been sent for some purpose. Shortly afterwards the two fellows reappeared, each carrying a valise. Still the workmen were not suspicious.

Upon Mrs. Rahm's return the discovery was made that the house had been ransacked and goods to the value of probably $100 were missing. Among the missing articles are eighteen solid silver spoons, one pair of solid gold cuff buttons, one pair of solid gold shirt buttons and cuff buttons, one revolver, a gold watch and chain and a half dozen silver table forks.

Entrance was effected by prying open a back window. It is supposed the thieves were after Mrs. Rahm's diamonds, but fortunately the lady had them on when the robbery was committed. There is no clew to the burglars.

MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETENSES.

Ben Eldred is the name of a young man arrested by Detective Colling last evening at the office of the United States Express company. He has been using the telegraph to secure money from the friends of a man in Chicago, using the man's name. Detective Colling worked up the case and arrested Eldred yesterday when he called at the express office to get as he supposed the proceeds of his last message. Eldred received one order for $50 through the United States company. His case will come up in police court tomorrow morning.

INDIANA and Illinois are regarded as the doubting states in the election of this year. Their "I's" will look duty square in the face and they will cast their electoral votes for Bryan and free silver.

THE New York Herald is gravely discussing the proper age for women to marry. Well, as times go now, it would seem that the proper age for women to marry is just as quick as she gets a chance.

LI HUNG CHANG is on the breed for the homeward bound. He left Vancouver amid a blaze of fireworks. He carries back to the fawery kingdom a vast fund of information which he gathered in this country.

WHEN will candidates learn? Have notice to our table a communication unaccompanied by the name of the writer or any clue by which we could ascertain who he is, and "check" it goes into our waste basket, as has been the fate of many communicate before it.

FRED BOOTS, of Covington, Ind., who, as a republican member of the state senate, was known as the "boy senator," announced that he will support the democratic ticket at the coming election. He says he is opposed to the financial declaration of the St. Louis convention.

THE democratic committee in the Eleventh district has filled the vacancy on the state committee caused by the resignation of Eston Magee, of Logansport, by the appointment of Samuel M. Cook, of Huntington. Mr. Cook has been chairman of the Huntington county committee for some time.

THERE is no use getting excited over these republican questions whereby insincerity and acrimony is stirred up—neighbor against neighbor. When you take a sober thought you must conclude that the dollar that is best for the one is also the best for the other and also that kind of tariff that benefits you will benefit your neighbor. The thing for you to do is to decide for yourself which kind you honestly believe is for the common good.

Voting for Electors.

Members of the electoral college are state officers under the law, and therefore their names appear on the state ballots. It is possible for a voter to vote for one or for all of them, and the returns of every presidential election shows that each has a few enemies who refuse to vote for him. Under the operation of the Australian law it has invariably happened that the first of the electors named has run far ahead of the rest because it is impossible, seemingly, to teach every voter that in vote the straight ticket, he must stamp either in the square surrounding the emblem or each name as it appears on the ballot. Many show that they believe they are voting as they desire by stamping by the side of the first elector's name.

The Right Kind of Spirit.

One of the most interesting reunion of the army that has taken place since the war is that gathering this week of the survivors of the union and confederate armies upon the battlefield of Antietam, to join in the dedication of the monument of the Philadelphia brigade.

The monument commemorates one of those splendid displays of American valor which every American must take equal pride, and we happily reached that time when we can look back to the stirring events of our great struggle without passion or prejudice, recognizing only the, base fact brought to both sections of the nation that through that struggle was brought to a more perfect union than before.

Sectionalism has no countenance now from the men who fought on either side at Antietam and Gettysburg. They clasp hands heartily as soldiers of America, and every battle monument becomes a pledge of peace which the folly of demagogues shall not be permitted to disturb.

Now Natural Gas Supply.

Natural gas has proven a most valuable fuel in Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and throughout the region which encroach of the wells, and its use has been of especial importance to the iron industries. At first it was supposed that the supply was inexhaustible and great enterprises were projected upon the basis of this supposition. Experience has shown that this is not the case and the decline in the supply, evidenced by the rapidly decreasing pressure, has of late begun to excite alarm.

It is shown by a recent report that the value of the gas consumed in Pennsylvania, which rose to $19,000,000 in 1886, has since then year gone down in a descending ratio, till it was less than $6,000,000 in 1895. The supply in Ohio and Indiana has likewise fallen off, and though manufacturers have learned the need of economy, so that there is much less waste than formerly, it is apparent that natural gas cannot be counted upon as a fuel of the future.

Still, it is not exhausted yet and it has served already a good purpose in diminishing the consumption of coal and thus prolonging to some extent the store of that fuel. The scientific man are waning us that the coal supply also is not inexhaustible, but before the coal gives out no doubt some other fuel will be discovered, or science will have found a way to make liquid fuel produce so much more heat that posterity will not be left to perish.

Improved Social Conditions.

It would be hopeless to attempt to prove that the present state of mankind is as bad as in preceding ages. It is a peculiarity of the human mind that it exaggerates the evils of a present time, while those of the past are softened by the haze of distance, but the most hurried reading of the history of social life must force the conclusion that the progress of the world toward a higher moral and intellectual and humane condition has been steady and rapid. The material conditions of life have kept even pace with the moral growth. Perhaps the student of religious history may find a decay of faith, due, perhaps, to the intellectual advancement and to the look of those oppressions and restrictions that have characterized the ages of devotion, but that the lot of civilized man has improved and is improving, it would be folly to deny.

The best and most truthful indications of the spirit of an age are the degree of comfort of the mass of mankind and the activity of the humane and benevolent sentiments. The establishment and extension of the free school system which places education within the reach of all and gives to the child of poverty the opportunity to reach the utmost limit of its capacity; the world free libraries, picture galleries, art and other museums; the free use of public parks and gardens, public baths, hospitals and the like; the benefits of public sanitation, and of all the inventions that have reduced the cost of producing many of the necessaries of life; of streets filled with cars that are superior to the carriages of the few for the needs of the common man—all these things are proofs of a degree of comfort in living unknown to mankind in any other age.

The human aspects of life show the same measure of improvement in the abolition of human slavery, in the restrictions and regulation of child and female labor in factories, in the compulsory education of all children, in the penal reforms, the limitation of capital punishment, the abolition of imprisonment for debt, and the general softening of the brutalities and hardships of life. To the industrious and thrifty there is far more of pleasantness in life now than ever before. The progress in all directions is not accidental and temporary, but the product of firmly established social principles.

James Cherry, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Cherry, of East Lewis street, has returned to Chicago.

Most Ancient City of the Earth.

It gives the American people a feeling of pride and satisfaction to know that a scientific expedition from their country has achieved one of the most important steps of progress ever made in the field of archeology. It is more than a mile and a half nearer that the professors from the University of Pennsylvania have discovered in Asia the ruins of a city at least 9,000 years old.

The commonly accepted belief is that the world is now about 6,000 years old. There is, however, no direct Bible authority for this belief. The chronology of the Bible and the age of the world were originally computed by an English clergyman. Using the genealogical tables of the Scriptures as a guide, he calculated as best he could the supposed age of the world, and he made it 4,004 years up to the birth of Christ. Therefore, of the subterranean city of Nipur, in Mesopotamia, the city unearthed by the Pennsylvania expedition, show that it existed in a high state of civilization at least 7,000 years before Christ.

This most ancient Nipur was a city beneath a city. In all time there has been a curious tendency to build new temples and churches upon the sites of old ones. The discovery of a second temple underneath a temple of Bel led to the unearthing of an entire Nipur beneath a Nipur, which facilitated back to most ancient known times. The discoverers of this subcellar Nipur, we speak, believe it was destroyed by the deluge described in the Bible, since it is at least 50 feet under ground and the soil which covers it is alluvial.

But, whether overwhelmed by floods or not, the builders of its buildings is to sink into the ground and be covered out of sight at last. In this because the earth's crust is soft and yielding or because it is growing thicker by increase upon its surface, increase through falling dust and perhaps? This is an interesting question.

The Venezuelan Settlement.

It may now be considered settled that the Venezuelan boundary question will be settled. Lord Salisbury himself has taken the initiative in a wholly agreeable manner. His proposal originally was that a commission of two Americans and two Britons should be appointed to examine and make report on the British Guiana claim. After that the real tribunal of arbitration should be appointed to act on the first commission's recommendations. The arbitration commission should be composed, according to Salisbury's idea, of one Venezuelan, one Britain, and a third to be chosen by the first two. Undoubtedly he would be an American.

This commission, the noble lord proposed, should settle permanently the boundary between Venezuela and British Guiana. But if the matter was turned over to Great Britain Venezuelan subjects or to Venezuela British subjects who had been upon the disputed lands previous to 1887, then, in so far as it did this, it could not stand. Henry again, however, Salisbury himself has given all that can be asked, for he says in substance that his government will consider the recommendations of the commission of arbitration even in prochecers.

On the last day of August, 20 years ago, Abdul Hamid II, "Abdul the Damned," as a British poet calls him, was proclaimed sultan of Turkey. Dispatches announce that the twentieth anniversary of his accession to the throne has been extensively observed. A jubilly anniversary it must have been, truly, with the Cretan rebellion not yet settled, Turkish soldiers still butchering Armenians on sight, women and temples in Constantinople stained with the blood of the sultan's subjects, and the streets full of mobs, murder and rioting, the empire bankrupt, foreign soldiers and marines crowding the city and the powers of Europe looking on with lowering brows. Would it be really kind to wish Abdul Hamid II many returns of the day?

One of the most tremendous artificial lights ever constructed will soon be in place in Kansas City. It is an electric light and so powerful that when fixed upon the top of a building like scene of the tallest of the structures in Chicago it would be plainly seen 50 miles away. From the height of an ordinary building it can be seen 12 miles. It is so penetrating that it will pierce the densest fog for a distance of 3,000 feet. A light like this on board ship would prevent collision in any darkness or obscurity. It is a light of more than a million candle power.

A learned anatomist announced long ago that women had as much gray matter in her brain as man has; therefore she is inferior. Professor Cesare Lombroso says she has not man's sensitiveness to physical pain; therefore she is inferior. And now comes another scientist and says that she cannot smell as well as a man can. It remains for the next philosopher to discover that there isn't any such creature as woman at all.

A German professor proves to his own satisfaction that a high state of civilization is not conducive to long life. He proves it by the fact that, while Germany, with a population of 50,000,000, has only 78 persons past the age of 100, France, with 40,000,000 inhabitants, has 219 centenarians.

Science has rated and classified stars down to the fourteenth magnitude. But they are only visible to the naked eye down to the sixth magnitude. The rest have been discovered by aid of the telescope and photograph. And altogether, of stars visible and invisible, 40,000,000 have been noted and numbered.

It requires more real courage to live on in this life bravely and well, doing always the duty that lies nearest, facing every difficulty as it comes and overcoming it, than it does to die. And it is much more credit to one.

The American head and the American foot are different from those of other nations. Both are comparatively long and narrow. For this reason American hats and American shoes are not greatly successful as articles of export.

Andree, the Swede, made a great fuss about crossing the pole in a balloon and then gave up the enterprise. He waited till it was too late to start. Now time to embark on the undertaking the public will believe more in his sincerity if he talks less.

LOST THE THIRD.

Through Errors the Game Goes to Toledo 8 to 1.

An Interesting Exhibition at Lakeside Park—The Attendance Was Large —Games Today.

Canton	76	29	47	.382
Washington	76	25	51	.329

The error column tells the tale of yesterday's game between Fort Wayne and Toledo at Lakeside park. One of the largest crowds of the season was on the grounds when time was called at 3 o'clock. Those in attendance—at least most of them—had but one desire, and that was that Fort Wayne would win. Neither side scored until the sixth inning, when "Reddy" Grey made a hit, which Vetters fumbled, and he reached second and scored on Crigar's hit. That ended our run getting. In the seventh, with two men out, Cecil made a long drive to left center, which Grey, by a hard effort, got his hands on for a moment and then dropped, and Cecil reached second. This was followed by Fisher fumbling Hartman's effort and Cecil was advanced to third and scored on Vetter's hit. The Mud Hens scored two more in the eighth and then made it sure. At the beginning of the game retiring Captain Tebeau was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers on behalf of his admirers. He doffed his cap in acknowledgment. Captain Tebeau will carry with him the best wishes of all Fort Wayne base ball lovers. The same is true of Louis Criger, who was in the game yesterday for the last time. He was by all odds the best catcher in the Interstate league, besides being a switcher. From this time on Mike Lynch will cover first and Johnny Welch will be behind the bat. Lynch will captain the team. The score:

GEORGIA CAINE.

Brilliant and Charming Actress Pays a Visit to Fort Wayne.

She Played a Part Since Childhood and Holds an Enviable Position in Her Profession.

An interesting visitor in the city today is Georgia Caine, the talented actress. She is accompanied by her husband, Charles Winters, and registered at the New Arcade for the day, while en route from New York to St. Louis, where she joins her company.

Georgia Caine, as she is professionally known, was too fatigued from her journey to submit to a reporter's interview, but her husband, a pleasant gentleman, vouchsafed some information that is interesting to persons who keep pace with the dramatic events of the day.

Miss Caine has within the past two years attained an enviable position in the comic opera. Like many other clever actresses, she inherits her histrionic talent from clever parents, both of whom are well known on the American stage. Her father is George R. Caine, and her mother plays under the name of Jennie Daragh. They are both with the "In Old Kentucky" company this season.

Miss Caine made her debut as a child actress in San Francisco, and although she was much in demand after that for child parts, her parents very wisely declined to allow her school education to suffer on that account. While attending school at Notre Dame she was only allowed to fill engagements during her vacations. After graduating from Wolf Hall in Denver, Miss Caine joined the Denver stock company, where she received an all round training, appearing in many diverse parts. Three years ago she came east, and in the course of the season was engaged for the boy's part in About Gotham. Last season she was engaged by D. W. Truss to fill the part of Malaya in Wang. She role in which Della Fox had originally appeared. Her work was universally praised by press and public, and her success brought her a contingent offer of engagements for the present season.

Fortunately for the Miner Brooks Stock Co., she consented to act an understudy for Jessie Gaylord's role during the Chicago performance of "Lost, Strayed or Stolen," last June. After the piece had been on the boards about a week, word came one day that Miss Gaylord was too ill to appear, and Miss Caine, who had been playing a matinee idol in the last act, was called upon to take the leading part at short notice. As one of the Chicago critics put it, she "lightly leaped into spontaneous through personal merit." She was naturally very nervous under the circumstances, but as the part of Rose is that of a nervous, emotional French actress, her nervousness rather assisted in her work, and she made such a hit that she has been engaged to play the part for the present season, and will appear with the company when "Lost, Strayed or Stolen" is brought out at the Fifth Avenue theater next Monday night.

Nature has endowed Miss Caine with personal beauty. This is undoubtedly a great advantage for a young person in the advantage of possessing a pleasant an unexpected voice and natural histrionic ability.

The Star Chamber Lock.

The veritable lock and key of the famous Star Chamber were sold at Christie's rooms, London, recently. The lock is scarcely made to stand up, though decorated to a certain extent in plain compared with the key, which is a wonderful piece of fretted steel. The metal is of a beautiful copper, otherwise it seems impossible that the stem should not snap off if there were the slightest kink in the turning of the lock. The lock dates from Queen Elizabeth's time.

MARRIED IN HASTE.

Remarkable Case of Love at First Sight Quickly Culminated in Matrimony.

One evening recently Irwin T. Barrett of Louisville visited a roof garden in New York with a friend named Walters, who is a resident of the country city. Barrett's father, a banker, died two months ago, leaving the young man a fortune of $25,000. While the two gentlemen were sipping their wine on the roof garden Miss Grace Russell, a pretty young actress, who has met with moderate success, entered and sat down at the next table in company with an acquaintance. The city friend of Barrett was known to Miss Russell and introduced the young Kentuckian, who was instantaneously and badly smitten with the charms of the fair Grace. The two entered into lively conversation, Barrett growing more and more enamored every moment, until he accosted the young woman by asking her to marry him. Miss Russell, after some maidenly hesitation, and with the assurance of Walters that young Barrett was an eligible parti, blushingly consented, and the whole party at once repaired to the home of the nearest resident clergyman. There the knot was tied, the time-table of the extraordinary affair being about as follows: At 8 p. m.,

MRS. BARRETT.

Miss Russell entered with Mlle. Lista, a dancer. At 8:03 Walters had introduced Barrett to Miss Russell. At 8:05 they drank claret lemonade together. At 8:07 they fell in love with each other. At 8:12 they were talking of getting married. At 8:19 Barrett was telling what his financial standing was. At 8:20 they informed Walters that they were going out to get married. At 8 Rev. Wilhelm G. Busse, pastor of the Forty-second Street Lutheran church, made them man and wife. Mrs. J. Hoole, the clergyman's housekeeper, and James Stewart, the cab driver, were the witnesses.

A Word or Two

to those suffering from catarrh or the thousands subject to severe attacks of cold in the head, will not be amiss if a sure remedy can be offered. Ely's Cream Balm has become a favorite in all sections of the United States, because of its effectiveness. Your cold in the head will be quickly relieved by it, and the severest attack of catarrh will yield to, and be perfectly cured by a thorough treatment. Catarrh is not a blood disease, but an inflammation of the passages of the nose and throat, due to climatic changes.

RAILWAY RUMBLINGS.

The Pittsburg Preparing for a Big Excursion Business.

It will require eleven trains of ten coaches each to carry the various McKinley Railway clubs, of Chicago, to Canton and all of them will pass through this city, over the Pittsburg road, between the hours of 5 and 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. The crews for these trains went up to Chicago on No. 29 this afternoon and they were as follows:

First Section—Conductor Pinney, Brakemen Leyer and Minch.

Second Section—Conductor Welsh, Brakemen Taylor and Murila.

Third Section—Conductor Morgan, Brakemen Carter and Grosmont.

Fourth Section—Conductor Benedict, Brakemen Rotenbaugh and Young.

Fifth Section—Conductor Prindeville, Brakemen Tousley and Hammon.

Sixth Section—Conductor Kesler, Brakemen Roberts and Walton.

Seventh Section—Conductor Brill, Brakemen Barber and McGary.

Eighth Section—Conductor McMahon, Brakemen Compton and L. K. Smith.

Ninth Section—Conductor Bogler, Brakemen Leyhard and Beardon.

Tenth Section—Conductor Bilenwood, Brakeman Bilenwood and Harding.

Eleventh Section—Conductor Finnell, Brakeman Lubig and Fletcher.

The engines to haul the trains, with their crews, went up earlier in the day, running light as sections of train No. 37. The crews were:

Engineers J. Mussey, Ed McDonald, C. J. Parsons, Chester Darnell, M. Laughlin, E. H. Rogers and F. F. Whitney; Firemen F. Simonson, F. Johnson, W. R. Wilgore, J. C. Pothemus, M. Brooks, W. F. Jungles and E. Blanchard, serve in rotation. The other four engine crews had not been selected when the reporter called at the round house.

Besides these eleven trains from Chicago, the Pennsylvania company will deliver ten others at Canton today, making twenty-five trains in all. The latter come from the other branches of the Pennsylvania northwestern system.

FOOT BADLY HURT.

Riley Evans is confined to his home, corner of Calhoun and Williams street, with a badly injured foot. Mr. Evans is a conductor on a Grand Rapids local freight and while engaged in unloading freight at Vinchester, Mich., a gang plank used to connect the car with the platform slipped from the latter, letting him down. A box of freight fell and crushed his right foot. Conductor Thomas Coleman has charge of the train.

A CALLER MARRIED.

Joseph A. Deahl and Miss Laura A. Sower were married at the home of the bride's parents, a few miles in the country, last evening, the ceremony being witnessed by the relatives and a few friends of the bride and groom. The couple is among our most respected young citizens and have hosts of friends who wish them a long, happy and prosperous life. Mr. Deahl is a caller at the Nickel Plate yards. Some weeks ago he told his comrades he contemplated matrimony, but as he is somewhat of a joker, the boys thought he was joking then also. They have since learned that he was in earnest. Mr. and Mrs. Deahl will reside in the city and he will continue to work for the Nickel Plate. The groom is a son of Conductor Deahl and a brother of Brakeman Deahl, both of the Nickel Plate.

HANDSOMELY REMEMBERED

The Washington correspondents have not forgotten the handsome testimonial they received from George W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent of the Pennsylvania, on the occasion of their trip west to attend the republican and democratic conventions. The trip was made over the Pennsylvania lines, under the personal supervision of Mr. Boyd, and in token of the correspondents' appreciation of his services, they presented him with a souvenir cheese, to be worn with a fob. It is composed of gold and silver throughout in different parts. A streaker dish, on one side gold and on the reverse silver, swings in a frame, one half of which is gold and one half silver. The gold side of the cheese bears the inscription, "St. Louis, June 16, 1896," encircling the monogram, "G. W. B." The other side is inscribed, "Chicago, July 7, 1896," with the keystone of the Pennsylvania company in the center, bearing the monogram "P. R. R." The bezels for the silk guard is also one-half gold and one half silver. On the beveled edges of the gold and silver are found the words, "To Mr. George W. Boyd, From the Washington Correspondents."

Golden & Patterson,

Leaders of Fashion.

56 Calhoun St. Opp. Court House

WE MUST WEAR CLOTHES.

THE LAW SAYS SO AND DECENCY COMPELS US TO.

Now if this be true, it is important that we be as WELL DRESSED as possible. The immortal Bard said: "That dress oft proclaims the man." This is absolutely true. In olden times it took "nine tailors to make a man." Now all that is necessary is to come to our establishment and buy one of our CELEBRATED HAMMERSLOUGH BROS. FAMOUS SUITS and he would be better dressed than any nine tailors in the city could possibly dress him, and for a great many dollars less.

The Little Ones Can't Go Naked, Especially When It Gets Colder, and the Law Won't Let Them Anyway.

So we are provided with all grades of Children's Clothing to fit any size child or any size purse. In this department can always be found a full line of the VERY LATEST NOVELTIES. We aim to carry the VERY FINEST GARMENTS made for the little ones. Novelties in all prices and grades of goods. We carry a full line of Sailors Suits, suits with two pants. We also carry an enormous stock of EXTRA PANTS in all sizes, prices and qualities.

We Are Now Showing Fall and Winter Styles in Suits.

Come and examine our immense stock and we will be pleased to show you and your friends The Styles That Are Going To Be The "Rage" This Fall and Winter.

Friend's + Enterprise,
